FIRST YEAR MEN LOSE TO VERMONT BY 19 TO 6 TALLY

Panther Cubs Weaken In Last Half

PATCH, WHITNEY, STAR FOR BLUE

Chipman Scores On Pass In Second Quarter

The Black Panther Cubs closed their season Saturday when they fell before the University of Vermont freshmen eleven by the score of 19-6 in the preliminary to the Middlebury-Norwich game. The game was loosely played all the way through, only one touchdown being made on straight football. Patch, Whitney and Rich took the stellar honors for Middlebury. Patch intercepted a pass in the second quarter and ran 48 yards, putting his team in position to make their only score. Whitney's consistent line bucking was a feature. For Vermont, Captain Fogg and Currie played a superior game.

Coach Drost's men played their best in the first half. In the last half they seemed to weaken somewhat while the upstaters strengthened. After holding Vermont for downs within a few yards of their own goal line early in the game, the Blue got the ball, but a poor pass from center combined with a fumble sent the ball behind the goal and a Vermont man fell on it. They failed to kick goal.

BUSINESS MEN TREAT SQUAD TO DINNER

All Football Men Dine At East Middlebury Monday Evening

The business men of Middlebury gave the football squad a good time Monday evening by taking them to East Middlebury and treating them to a "real feed" at the Green Mountain Inn. It was not a banquet, the men averred, but just a dinner with chicken pie and heaps of other good things to eat.

In expressing the squad's appreciation of this way the business men took of showing their faith in the team and their pleasure in the results of the season, Captain Moynihan said, "They told us this was not a banquet, but only a dinner. If this is only a dinner, I wonder what a banquet would be."

Physical Director Arthur M. Brown made a few pleasing remarks, as did also several of the business men. Songs and cheers were given and everyone was made to feel at ease. About sixty attended.

George Cowles '22, of Derby Line, Vt., was a guest of Doctor and Mrs. E. D. Collins over the week-end.

BLUE QUINTET TO OPEN SEASON WITH CLARKSON HERE

Dec. 15, Potsdam Five To Pay Visit

P. C. PERKINS TO COACH VARSITY

Axtell, Hollquist, Knowles Only Lettermen Back

The 'Varsity Basketball schedule as approved by the Athletic Council and as made public to-day by Manager Rollin R. Crane contains fourteen games, seven of which are to be played on the home floor. The long Western trip has been abandoned this year and in its place games with New England Colleges have been arranged. Clarkson opens the season for the Blue and White here on December 15. Three days later the Black Panther quintet meets Harvard in Cambridge. The University of Vermont is slated to appear here February 13 while Middlebury ends the season at Burlington on March 4.

Mr. F. C. Perkins, instructor in English, has been secured to coach the team. Coach Perkins comes to Middlebury from the University of New Hampshire where his record has been of the best. Varsity practice will not start until next Monday but Coach Perkins will get a line on his men during some interclass contests which are to be played Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

In accordance with the one-year residence ruling, there will be a separate schedule for the Freshman team and no first year men will be allowed to play on the 'Varsity five. Besides Captain Axtell, there are Holquist '25, and Knowles '26, who are letter men from last year's squad. Lamb '26 and the Rice brothers, both '26, tho not among last season's letter men, will also be available for the team.

Blue Eleven Works Perfectly—Has Little Trouble Tearing Thru Cadet's Defense

LOBO SCORES THREE TOUCHDOWNS

Visitors Rally In Last Period But Hopes Are Dashed As Whitney Intercepts Pass

Middlebury wound up her 1923 football season with a bang Saturday by overpowering Norwich on Porter Field by the score of 41-0. From the time that Frosty Williams scored the first touchdown in the first quarter after taking Whitney's pretty forward pass, there was little hope for plucky little Norwich. But she put up a determined fight nevertheless and rallied in the last period to the point of threatening the Blue's goal.

Dave Morey's machine was rolling smoothly, of that there was no doubt in the minds of the crowd as they watched the Blue backs plow thru the visitors' line, circle the ends almost at will, and complete pass after pass for long gains. Andy Lobo in particular shone resplendent in broken field running, breaking away once on the 50-yard line and running for a touchdown. Whitney also was covering the turf in true form,

Certain erroneous inferences which have lately come to our ears make it necessary for us to state explicitly that The Campus does not necessarily agree with or uphold any opinions expressed in printed communications.

The Credit Of The Season

Middlebury's 1923 football season is at an end. Three games won, three lost, and two tied point to an average season. In points scored, however, the season is better than average, as Middlebury ran up 105 to her opponents' 55. All will agree that the Harvard 6-6 draw was the high-water mark of the season. We feel safe in saying that those who saw the Blue and White eleven overwhelm the Northfield gridmen on Porter Field Saturday witnessed one of the best football teams that has ever represented Middlebury, running in true form. Who is responsible for the development of that team? Who but Coach Dave Morey.

Middlebury has always acquitted herself honourably in her bouts with the Crimson. On October 13 the football world was electrified by the news that the little Vermont college had fought Harvard to a tie. It has been suggested that Middlebury secured more wholesome publicity as a result of that great game than she has ever received because of any other one action or event. To whose skilful management and strategy are we indebted for that virtual victory over Harvard? To whose but to that of Coach Morey, whose genius has labored for four years to build up a winning eleven?

In view of the successes of the 1923 season, which have been achieved during the first year of the application of the freshman rule, nothing less than a vote of unlimited confidence in Coach Morey is in order. His retention would seem to be the only course consistent with his services to Middlebury, and will be the surest means of insuring an even better season for 1924.

A Good Movement

The inauguration of a number of discussion groups in the Women's College, conducted by the Y. W. C. A., is the latest manifestation of mental activtiy on the north side of the hill. Moreover the groups are by no means to be limited to the scope of orthodox religion. Last Sunday evening the general topic taken up was The Moral Code. At least half of the women of the College were present at one of the half-dozen different groups. The discussions all showed an exceptional interest in subjects ethical, and seemed to indicate that there was a strong purpose dominating the lives of those present. The desire which created the movement is wholly commendable. Moreover, we can think of no more downright profitable way in which to spend Sunday evenings. It will take continued keen interest, however, to insure the success of the meetings.

We plead for interest, in what is ordinarily termed undergraduate affairs. At the meeting of the Undergraduate Association last night the representation of upperclassmen was by no means creditable. The business that comes up at these meetings is always important business, and deserves the calm and reasoned consideration of upperclassmen. Students can not complain for lack of student government when they themselves show very little inclination or desire to accept the responsibilities of student government. In this connection it is well to bear in mind that the President of the Association bears no light load upon his shoulders and is hardly encouraged by the presence of about one upperclassman to every freshman at undergraduate meetings.

The generous action of the business men of Middlebury in treating the football squad to a royal feast at East Middlebury Monday evening is deserving of favorable mention. Recognizing that on the whole the season has been a most successful one, the merchants took this most appropriate way of expressing their approbation.

Manager Crane's basketball schedule presents a much saner appearance minus the extended western excursion of last year's card. It is a more modest program, to be sure, but one which more nearly befits the present status of basketball here.

What "The Nation" Thinks

A suspicion has been growing of late years that it might be just as well to treat university undergraduates as adults instead of as children. The creatures seemed to be getting out of hand, and sops like student self-government and the honor system at examinations and student members on the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs were thrown out from time to time by more than one harassed Alma Mater. But, of course, the cut system and compulsory attendance at classes was the prop on which the academic world rested. It seemed obvious that if a student did not have to come to class he would stay away; if you did not believe it, you could visit the classes yourself and see why. Now Princeton has taken the bold step of permitting the students to decide for themselves if and when they will attend classes. This puts a fearful responsibility on the instructor. Henceforth he must make his classes interesting. At the end of the course he will also have to prepare an examination determining less whether the student has mastered his facts than whether he has any ideas about them or about anything. Some young gentlemen will never come to class at all, but if they do not and can satisfy the instructor in those two points, Princeton is ready to admit that it is all right. Common-sense sometimes sounds alarmingly revolutionary.—The Nation.

HE'S NOT THE ONLY ONE

The speaker waxed eloquent, and after his peroration on women's rights, he said, "When they take our girls, as they threaten, away from the coeducational colleges, what will follow? What will follow, I repeat?"

And a loud masculine voice in the audience replied, "I will."—Clipped.

Sideline Snatches

Norwich's record of yards gained through the line is rather impressive—from a Middlebury standpoint. In the first quarter they found worse than a stonewall and had a net loss of twelve yards. In the second and third quarters they had the ball only at rare intervals, and gained not a foot. However they started off well in the last quarter and made eighteen yards before Whitney got that pass.

Which all helps to prove that there hasn't been a backfield this season that could go through the Middlebury line consistently.

Where was the band?

Norwich's President, they say, forgot his ticket. At any rate, a freshman usher was not disposed to allow him a seat in the Norwich bleachers, and even contemplated showing him to the gate before Prexy Plumley put him wise. Always on their job, those frosh.

Not content with the way the Blue jerseys were putting it over the Red in the last quarter, the Middlebury cheerleaders ordered the "Undertaker" song. It seemed a bit cruel as well as unnecessary inasmuch as Norwich was already in a fit condition for a gentleman of that profession.

Tho few in number, the Cadet rooters loosened up their vocal instruments in the last half and supported their team nobly.

The Blue was only six inches from a seventh touchdown when time was called. Five seconds more would have made it 47 at the rate the boys were going. It was better so, tho, as Norwich now may well pride herself in having held back that last determined line buck.

Lobo promises to surpass his former record in track next spring. He started training Saturday afternoon. "Andy" alone made over two hundred yards including all his runs, passes and receiving of kickoffs. Six times he made fifteen yards or more.

Whitney's punting toe was not overworked. He kicked the ball twice in the first period but after that there was never any necessity of kicking. Klevenow was always good for the necessary distance when it was fourth down.

We didn't see the Irwin scoreboard.

For the first time in several years the sophomore class won the hatscrap. In a big rough and tumble between the halves, the class of '26 proved to be the best at mixing into it. They won hands down (on the hat), when Al Knowles and Cleon Lambe both got two hands on the coveted object and Bill Purdy and Red Hoyt got one apiece. Only two frosh were fortunate (?) enough to be on the bottom.

Writer Defends Coeducation As Providing Balancing Factor In College

To the Editor:

Middlebury coeducation has been cited by many critics as exemplifying a very well worked-out compromise, a combination of masculine strength and substantial feminity. The hardihood and pluck which we see upon the athletic field is nicely balanced by the gentler manners, and perhaps finer ideals evidenced by the Women's College.

In this respect it is very much like a large family. How unbalanced a home would be if given over entirely to the husband's smoking-rooms, horses, dogs, guns, fishing-rods, or any of the other implements which typify masculinity about a place. How equally distressing the pink and blue daintiness of the feminine boudoirs would seem if they crowded the atmosphere of the rest of the home.

Because some question the advisability of coeducation, and because the year thus far has been devoted to praise of masculine prowess upon the athletic field and elsewhere, it is opportune to hear of the latest movement on the north side of the campus: namely, the discussion groups recently started by the Y. W. C. A. and attended by a large number of the women. What better contribution could be made to the strength of any institution than the presence of two hundred and fifty serious-minded, deep-thinking women? If individual men find their interests swinging to "bigger things," as they express it, they need not feel bound to participate in social activities.

We must not only consider the good of a few individuals; we must also consider what is best for the progress of the College as a whole.

Roberts And Tomagno Receive P-rade Prizes

At the meeting of the Undergraduate Association held last night in the gymnasium the prizes for the Freshman P-rade were awarded. The first prize, a large Middlebury banner was given to Theodore Roberts of Rutland, and Paul Tomagno of New York City. Roberts and Tomagno were cleverly costumed as a pair of Fiji Islanders. Charles Vorce of Mexico, New York, was awarded a small banner as second prize. He took part in the P-rade dressed as a chorus girl.

A recommendation from the Athletic council that the freshmen team be awarded numerals on the same basis as the varsity team is given letters, was approved.

BUSY-NESS A DANGER SAYS PRES. MOODY

Real Interests Evaporate As We Let Lesser Ones Interfere

"And as thy servant was busy here and there, he was gone," was the text of President Moody's sermon, Sunday afternoon.

In our everyday life we let slip the big things, even though we were doing important things at the time. It is small consolation to succeed in the lesser if we fail in the greater.

We must take care lest the same thing happen in our spiritual life. As we go on from day to day supposing that our souls are all right, we may find that the spirit of God is dead within us because it has been crowded out by other things.

What are we in the world for? Why are we alive? Have we lost sight of our primary aim? "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and all other things shall be added unto you."

As we are busy here and there the very meaning of life evaporates and we must write ourselves down as failures.

BANKER GIVES LECTURE TUESDAY

College Men Needed In Banking Profession He Says

"The banking field today is one of unlimited opportunity for the colege man, as it demands trained men, grounded in theories and principles." This was the keynote of Mr. W. I. Bullard's lecture in the Chemistry building last evening on, "Banking Opportunities, Domestic and Foreign."

"Banking," said Mr. Bullard, who is a prominent Boston banker, "is of vital importance to everyone, for credit which is dependent on banking, is the vehicle for all of the world's present commerce and business."

"Banking is no longer a business in which to be successful, one must start at the bottom and work up. In fact the highest positions are for those who enter the business with a thorough knowledge of economic principles and theories, and who can apply themselves to abstruse problems. For this, a college education is indispensable."

After the lecture on Banking, Mr. Bullard talked for a few minutes on "Opportunities in the Textile Industry" a subject of which he has extensive personal knowledge. He stated that the foreign field in the textile industry, especially Brazil, offers marvelous oppoortunities for the young man of today.

Receives First President's Cuff Links

Quaint Jewelry of Jeremiah Atwater Sent To President Moody

The cuff-links of the Rev. Jeremiah Atwater, first President of Middlebury College, have recently been presented to the college by Mr. Eliot Atwater, of New York, great-grandson of President Atwater. The links have been handed down through three generations in the Atwater family. President Atwater left them to his son, John P. Atwater, who left them to his son, Edward S. Atwater, from whom Eliot Atwater received them.

The links are of quaint design, engraved with the initials "J. A." President Paul D. Moody, to whom the links were sent, has turned them over to Mr. John A. Fletcher, treasurer of the college, for safe-keeping. It is expected that they will be placed on exhibition in the Egbert Starr Library in the near future.

Women's Basketball Season Opens

The Women's Basket Ball season started this afternoon when the first practice was held in McCullough Gymnasium at four o'clock. A practice schedule is now being arranged whereby individual class practices will be held every Wednesday and Friday afternoon and interclass practice games every Tuesday and Thursday evening.

Miss Ruth Mary Joslin, '20, of Waitsfield, Vt., recently announced her engagement to R. Wellington Chutter of Swanton, Vt. Miss Joslin has been a teacher in the Classical Department of Northfield, Mass., Seminary the past three years, and last year was acting head teacher at East Hall. Mr. Chutter, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. W. Chutter of Swanton, is associated with the Proctor Marble Company of Proctor, Vt. He is a graduate of Mount Hermon School and the University of Vermont, and in 1922-23 was principal of the Whitehall, N. Y., High School.

Varsity Wins Over Norwich 41-0

in the last quarter intercepting a pass on the Blue's 10-yard line and sprinting with it to Norwich's 35-yard line before being brought down. Marshall Klevenow comes in for a share of the honors too, his locomotive-like charges at the Red and Gold line accounting for not a little of Middlebury's total yardage. Three of the six touchdowns made by Middlebury were made by Lobo, while Klevenow, Williams, and Hollquist each scored one.

In the quarterback position which he occupied thruout a large part of the game, Frosty Williams played the game as a veteran might be proud to have played it. Beside crossing the line for the first touchdown, he added two points in the last period by dropkicking two goals after touchdown. Klevenow's skill in placekicking from the field was not required, the touchdown route being the easier way of rolling up points. For the visitors, Rosenthal's fighting game from start to finish should not go unmentioned.

Whitney Hurls Scoring Pass

Norwich secured the kickoff, which Whitney received and carried back to Middlebury's 30-yard line. Three downs netted the Blue but 8 yards and Whitney punted to the visitor's 25-yard line. Norwich failed to gain and punted to her own 45-yard mark. A pretty pass, Williams to Lobo, laid the ball on Norwich's 10-yard line. The defenders stiffened and blocked a line buck. On the third down, Whitney flung a short pass to Williams who placed it well within the posts. Klevenow kicked the goal.

Again Norwich kicked off. Whitney made 4 yards, tried a pass, which was incomplete, and punted to Norwich's 30-yard line. On the third play Norwich showed a burst of power by plunging thru the Blue line for 7 yards. It was only a burst however, and she was forced to punt, it being Middlebury's ball again on the 45-yard line. Five yards by Whitney and 8 by Klevenow thru the line gave the Blue a first down. Lobo fumbled and a cadet fell on the ball on Middlebury's 45-yard line. It seemed catching for Norwich fumbled on the next play but recovered. An attempted forward was intercepted by Klevenow, and the period ended with Middlebury in possession of the ball on the 50-yard mark.

Hollquist Scores

Klevenow's clean line plunges netted Middlebury three first downs in succession at the beginning of the second quarter. Hollquist followed by diving thru for a 2-yard gain and touchdown. Klevenow kicked the goal. Whitney again received the kickoff and ran it back to the 32-yard line. A nice pass, Whitney to McLaughlin, counted three white stripes for Middlebury. Klevenow and Whitney made it first down in four tries; then Lobo circled left end for 15 yards. Two ineffectual tries by Whitney and two incompleted forwards, Whitney to Bennett, and Whitney to Hollquist, gave the ball to Norwich as the half ended.

As the second half opened, Norwich kicked off, Klevenow receiving the ball on his 15-yard line and running it back 10 yards. Lobo tore thru right tackle for 10 yards, and again for three. A forward, Williams to Potter was incomplete. Again Lobo raced around left end for a 20-yard gain. Another pass attempt was incomplete. Whitney failed to gain, but Williams' next throw to Novotny was good and Klevenow's line buck completed a first down. Each Middlebury back did his bit during the next few minutes to the end that the Blue gained two more first downs in rapid succession, and then Lobo went over for the third touchdown. Klevenow's kick went barely wide of the posts. Score 20-0.

Visitor's Stiffen Attack

Failure to gain after receiving the kickoff and a poor punt, gave the Blue another chance to score. Klevenow accepted the opportunity as the last quarter ended and carried the ball over for the fourth tally. His kick this time was good. Lobo accepted the kickoff and tore thru the ragged Norwich tackling to his own 35-yard line. A forward pass was intercepted by Rosenthal of Norwich on the 50-yard line. Norwich completed a pass for a minor gain. Then her backs took on a burst of speed and broke thru for a 15-yard gain. Klevenow spoiled the visitor's hopes however by knocking down a perfectly good pass, and then Whitney completely dashed them by intercepting another perfectly good attempt and racing for 35 yards before being downed. The speedy halfback had earned his rest and Stone Hollquist, who went in in his place proved his right to it by tearing off 15 yards. Another good forward, Papke to Lobo, sent the latter over for a touchdown. Williams dropkicked the goal.

Lobo Adds Another 6

Norwich kicked off. Lobo made 5 yards and Hollquist went thru the line for 8 more. Then Andy took matters into his own hands, and carried the pigskin safely from the 50-yard line over the goal line. Again Williams dropkicked the goal.

The slaughter began again, a pass, Hollquist to Quackenbush, adding materially to Middlebury's yardage. Tho the Varsity backs worked with frenzied speed, the whistle blew as Hollquist was dropped within a yard of another touchdown. The bright spot in Norwich's record was that her warriors held out to the bitter end and prevented that last threatened touchdown.

First Year Men Lose To Vermont

Although staked to a six point lead, Vermont did not hold it for long. Soon after the opening of the second period Patch intercepted a pass on his own 35-yard line and ran 48 yards to Vermont's 17-yard line before he was downed. After hitting the line unsuccessfully once, Patch threw a pass to Chipman, who was entirely free and able to run for a touchdown. Rich missed the goal.

The third quarter was evenly fought, the ball being in midfield most of the time. Whitney made several nice line bucks in this period, once going through for fifteen yards. As the fourth quarter opened, Vermont had the ball on Middlebury's 40-yard line. By a succession of line plays including fifteen yard gains by Currie and Fogg, the ball was taken to the one-yard line and Fogg carried it over for a touchdown. He also kicked the goal.

Shortly after, Vermont recovered a fumble and carried the ball to the 30-yard line. An attempt to drop-kick from here failed. Middlebury was given the ball on the 20-yard line but on the first play was penalized fifteen yards for illegal use of the hands. Whitney's punt was blocked and Cleveland fell on the ball for another Vermont touchdown. The game ended with the ball in midfield.
